Death of Mrs. Kahookano.

In the demise of Mrs. Kahookano whose death happened early yester day morning at her residence and announced by us, this community has lost a worthy woman, a true and faithful wife as well as a good and loving mother. She died at the early age of 31 years lacking ten days to complete her cycle. For some time past she has been unwell and was confined to her bed for a few days suffering a great deal, but her end was peaceful when she expired in the hands of her loving husband.

Hawaii nei has lost a mother for she was a mother indeed of seven offsprings, five of whom survive her. Three girls and two boys. Her sterling qualities will be much miss ed amongst those of her own people she assists and lends a helping hand and also amongst those of her own immediate society. She was kind and generous to a fault, and all were alike to her.

Her funeral takes place from Kau makapili Church at 3 o'clock this afternoon, she being one of the most valued members of its congregation as well as of its choir, and interment at the Kawaiahao Cemetery, where most of her own people that have gone before her are buried. Services will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. E. S. Timoteo, and the arrangements under the direction of Mr E. A. Williams.

THE INDEPENDENT extends to the husband, Mr. J. K. Kahookano, the well-known attorney, its sincerest sympathy as well as to the children who mourn her loss. Their loss is her gain.

Around the Coffee Shops.

"Mynah birds and coffee trees do not interest me; big yields bore me; what I most want to know is 'where are we at'?" said the Early Riser. "I came here in the fall of '49 or the spring of '50 and found a monarchy, lived through it and then had a short and disagreeable attack of Provisionalism which left me with a chronic case of oligarchy. Now I understand that United States forces are coming here to fortify Honolulu and protect the people and their schoolhouses while Hilo, the hub of the Sandwich Island and the metropolis of the biggest piece of land in the group, is left to hustle. What do you think of it? Are we to depend upon the Citizens' Guard or the police force for protection, or both? When I saw the force at the cemetery on Monday my heart bled for the poor people down town; I wondered who would protect them during that brief spell in case of invasion. I am still wondering, but no friendly echo answers. It is like the echo at Killarney-out of sorts. In what way? I cannot tell, only this. I was there last year and went with a guide to the top of a high mountain where there is a lake called the devil's punchbowl. The echo there is beautiful, resounding many times. As usual the guide, a chap known as O'Donohue, called several times: 'Hello, Paddy!' Each time it came back, but in dying tones: 'lo, Paddy!' After several ineffectual efforts the guide gave it up in disgust saying: 'It's all wrong, he generally says: 'Pretty well, I t'ank vez'.''

America will some day rule the wave and the words of the song will have to be changed, but without adequate protection from the United States I consider that we in Hilo are in a dangerous position, notwithstanding your argument as to our safety-Akana, you can give me another cup of coffee and one doughnut."-The Hawaii Herald.
